Mrs. Wilson Talks of Fruit Salads

It's Against Dietetic Principles to Mingle Oil Dressings
With These—Use Specially
Concocted Ones Instead

SOMETIMES during the winter season the housewife feels that with a rich, substantial meal she would prefer to serve some dainty delicate dessert or fruit salad.

From the Bahamas to the California coast, I have hunted for the best and most attractive combinations of fruit and suitable sauces to dressings to serve with these splendid fruit salads. Most men folk like the idea of fruit salads, but they abhor the various dressings that the housewife feels she must make these wonderful fruits with; and hence the men folk look askance upon a very delicious salad. Don't mix vegetables and cheese with the fruits for dietetic reasons; much of the digestive disturbance comes from eating fruit salads can be traced to the breach of dietetic balance.

Fruits contain a large amount of pure distilled water, that is very acceptable to the blood stream in its natural condition; also the needed mineral salts, and the vitamins, and when these elements are either combined with wrong foods or marked with oily dressings, then they create digestive disturbances. Serve all fruit salads, with strictly fruit salad dressings.

White Grape Salad
Halve and seed one-half pound of white grapes, place in bowl and add:
Two apples, pared and cut in dice.
One cup of stoned white cherries.
Toss to blend and serve in crisp nests of lettuce with a fruit salad dressing.

Bahama Pineapple Salad
Cut sliced pineapple in small pieces, using six slices, place in bowl and add:
One and one-quarter cups of marsh-mallows, cut in dice.
Two apples, pared and cut in dice.
One cup of stoned white cherries.
Three-quarters cup of shredded coconut.

Toss to blend and serve in crisp nests of lettuce.

Panama Salad
Cut in dice
Six halves of canned pears,
Six halves of canned peaches,
Two apples, pared and diced,
Three bananas, peeled and cut in dice.
Three-quarters cup of coconut.

Toss to blend and turn in crisp nests of lettuce. Many combinations of fruits may be arranged, and the housewife will find it a distinct advantage if she will arrange all fruit salads, in individual portions.

Preparing all fruit salads in individual salads prevents the salad from having a musty appearance that is bound to appear after the first one or two portions are served from a large salad. All fruit salads should be marinated for at least twenty minutes in the following fruit blends.

Juice of one lemon.
Juice of one-half orange.
Two tablespoons of sirup from the maraschino cherry bottle.

Blend well and pour over the prepared fruit. This will prevent both the apples and bananas from discoloring. I have gathered here some very attractive all-fruit salad dressings, and most of them can be made up and stored in fruit jars in the refrigerator until needed.

French All Fruit Dressing
Place in small bowl
Two tablespoons of powdered sugar,
Four tablespoons of sirup from maraschino cherry bottle,
Juice of one lemon,
Juice of one lime,
Juice of one large orange.

Pinch of each, allspice, mace and ginger, beat to blend and serve ice cold. This dressing takes the place of the regular French dressing, which because of its oily content is not suitable for fruit salads.

My Own All-Fruit Salad Dressing
Place in saucepan
One cup of honey,
One and one-quarter cups of scater,
Two cups of orange juice,
Juice of two lemons,
Four level tablespoons of cornstarch.

Blend well to dissolve the starch, and bring to boiling point; cook for five minutes, then add yolks of two eggs, and beat in the yolks of egg hard. Place in mixing bowl.
One cup of marshmallow cream,
One-half glass of either apple or quince jelly, and use rotary egg beater and whip until the mixture forms a very stiff meringue.

Now add to the cooked mixture
One cup of marshmallow cream,
The prepared cationian cream, made of white of egg and jelly,
One-half teaspoon of nutmeg,
One teaspoon of vanilla.
Beat hard to blend, fill into large jar, seal and place near ice to keep cold. This dressing won the gold prize at recent food exhibits, and will keep two weeks in a very clean place. It is the most delicious all-fruit salad dressing that you can make.

I also received the blue ribbon at the Tennessee State fair, but that is another story, that I will bring to you real soon.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 812—A Bulb Full of Water
The performer takes an ordinary electric light bulb and asks that it be examined to prove that the top is not detachable from the glass. He allows a label or any other mark of identification to be stuck on the bulb, and then steps from the room for a few moments. When he returns, the bulb is entirely filled with water (Fig. 1). There is virtually no air inside an electric light bulb, so that all the performer has to do is to dip the pointed end of the bulb into a pitcher or basin of water. With a knife he breaks off the little point at the end of the bulb (Fig. 2) and the water rushes in. A tiny dab of gum or wax will close the hole where the water entered and the bulb is ready to show.

Wanamaker's Down Stairs Store
Query: Why do you use GOOD so often in your advertisements?
Answer: Because the dictionary defines good as "having excellent qualities, unblemished, adequate, expedient, reliable, that which contributes to happiness, benefit" — and there is nothing which so fittingly describes all Wanamaker's Down Stairs Store merchandise as this word GOOD. Please remember, too, that all the prices here are very moderate.
